Frontier Airlines Announces Even More Low Fares for Milwaukee:
New Flights to Austin and Raleigh-Durham from $39

Milwaukee - Low-cost carrier, Frontier Airlines, announced two new non-stop destinations from Milwaukee’s General Mitchell International Airport. In April, the airline will begin the only nonstop flights to Austin, Tex. and Raleigh-Durham, N.C. With these two new routes, Frontier Airlines now offers 10 nonstop destinations from Milwaukee. All flights are available for purchase now at flyfrontier.com with introductory fares as low as $39* each way.

“We are proud to serve the Milwaukee community with some of the lowest fares in the industry,” Seth Neuschwander, Director, Network Planning and Revenue Analysis for Frontier Airlines, said. “This expansion means that even more people can afford to travel to and from the Brew City. Through our Low Fares Done Right mission, we are committed to offering our customers not only a great deal but a great experience. With low-fare options to 10 different destinations, we look forward to welcoming new and returning passengers onboard soon.”

“Nonstop service to important markets like Austin and Raleigh-Durham - combined with Frontier’s ultra-low fares - mean more choices for Milwaukee travelers, and more reasons to choose MKE,” Milwaukee County Executive Chris Abele said at a news conference today unveiling the new service.
